

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An imaging device includes a convex mirror for reflecting incident light representing an object, the 5 convex mirror having a shape of solid of revolution; an imaging mechanism for taking an image represented by reflected light from the convex mirror; and an optical member for guiding the incident light toward the convex mirror and guiding the reflected light toward the imaging 10 mechanism, the optical member being in close-contact with the convex mirror.